Chapter 1

The Power of Words and the Art of Word Magic

Many spiritual teachings have taught mankind that the world is made up of space (expansiveness and infinity), air (mobility), fire (temperature), water (fluidity), and earth (solidity).¹ These five elements are not based on physical qualities but spiritual qualities. Besides these five qualities of spiritual energy, the world is also made of words because we live in a world that relies heavily on words to communicate. When words are spoken aloud, they transform into sound, frequency, and vibration which are some of the fundamental building blocks of matter. The physical world we live in is made of matter; therefore, it is also made of sound, frequency, and vibration. On a deeper level, the material world was brought into existence using the power of spoken words. A spoken word has sound, frequency, and vibration, giving it the power to affect how energy manifests itself into physicality. Hence, the biblical saying, “In the beginning was the Word”.

Phonetically, the term world sounds similar to the term whirled which is the past tense of the term whirl, meaning “to turn around, spin, or rotate rapidly” (bold emphasis added).² Before you were born, you were whirled into existence. The evidence of this is the fact that your physical body is made of atoms. What do atoms do? They spin, vibrate, and rotate very rapidly. This may be why the movie The Matrix has a character named Neo. In Latin, the word neo means “produce by spinning, spin, weave” (bold emphasis added).³ ⁴ The term “world” also sounds similar to the term “word” and the term “word” sounds similar to the term “whir”. One of the origins of the term whir is the Old Norse word hvirfla, meaning “to turn”.⁵ In English, the term whir is defined as “to go, fly, revolve, or otherwise move quickly with a humming or buzzing sound”.⁶ The definitions of the boldface words in this paragraph are all related to the word spin. Why the word spin? Because everything in the universe spins to some degree and we live in a galaxy that spins. The world (“whirled”) also spins to a certain degree and the people living on it use spoken words to create their worlds and realities.

The language system, which is a system that uses symbols, signs, and sounds to convey thoughts and emotions, is made of words because words have magic powers and are great for enlightening, disempowering, or deceiving you. One of the reasons that words can easily deceive you is that they can be misinterpreted and misunderstood. Furthermore, each letter of a word can be rearranged to hide the word’s deeper meaning. In addition, a word can be given many different definitions to confuse you. Words with many different definitions are often used by judges and attorneys to trick you to temporarily surrender your natural rights which are your God-given rights. This is why it is important that you learn how to decipher words and really pay attention to their definitions.

To innerstand why words have the power to deceive you, you need to know one of the occult definitions of the word language. Keep in mind that one of the origins of the word language is the Latin word lingua, meaning “tongue”.⁷ To find one of the occult definitions of language, you need to separate the word language into three words and study the definitions of these three words, so you know what they mean on a deeper level. When you separate the word language into three different words, it transforms into “lan”, “gu”, and “age”.

Language = Lan / Gu / Age

“Lan” is the feminine Chinese and Vietnamese name for “orchid.” The Vietnamese “lân” changes this to the masculine context meaning “unicorn” coming from “Kỳ lân.” When “Kỳ lân” is translated from Vietnamese to Latin, we get the word “unicornis.” The Kỳ lân was a dragon type creature that was said to only protect the noble ones. It was also known as the “Qulin.”

“Gu” is the god of war in the Dahomey mythology. So now we have “Lan,” a monster that protects the noble ones and

“Gu,” the god of war. “Age” is the “age” or “ages” of the zodiac. Hence, Lan / Gu / Ages are the “monsters of war that protect the noble ones or “golden gods” (Au-dio) throughout the ages.”^[8]

The language system is an effective tool to help us communicate with one another. However, because of our ignorance of the power of words, the Dark Forces (false gods) have used it against us to wage war on mankind for many ages. They have used the language/language system to divide mankind and prevent us from communicating to people who speak a different language. This made it easier for the minions of the Dark Forces to engineer wars between nations, thereby tricking us to fight one another which in turn prevents us from making the real perpetrators liable and responsible for their crimes against mankind. The Dark Forces are obsessed with wars for the reason that wars cause a lot of death and destruction, thereby generating a large quantity of fear which is a negative energy that the Dark Forces like to consume. On a deeper level, wars are sacrificial rituals for generating negative energy and preventing us from increasing our frequency beyond certain levels, making it harder for us to ascend to higher states of consciousness.

In the English language, many words are carefully designed and put together in a way that allows them to be used to cast spells. The Dark Magicians are well aware of this which is why they like to use the English language to trick us to play their con game to enslave mankind. English is the language that the Dark Forces want to use to control the world. One of the reasons for this is that many English words are great for creating deceptive contracts. In addition, English has become the global language of business. The good news is that there are many powerful words in the English language. When we learn how to use these words wisely, we can stop the Dark Forces from diminishing our freedom and sovereignty. By the end of this book, you will learn many empowering words that you can use to restore and protect your freedom and sovereignty.

The Secret Power of the English Language

To innerstand how powerful the English language is, one of the first things that you need to do is study the etymology of English. The word English is a very interesting word to investigate because hidden inside it are many secrets of the universe. When you decipher the word English deeply enough, you will eventually know that the people who created the English language were inspired by God. To find evidence of this, you need to use certain dictionaries, the Bible, and the art of word magic to help you decipher the word English. According to EtymOnline.com. the word English etymologically means:

“the people of England; the speech of England,” noun use of Old English adjective Englisc (contrasted to Denisc, Frencisce, etc.), “of or pertaining to the Angles,” from Engle (plural) “the Angles,” the name of one of the Germanic groups that overran the island 5c., supposedly so-called because Angul, the land they inhabited on the Jutland coast, was shaped like a fish hook (see angle (n.)). The use of the word in Middle English was reinforced by Anglo-French Engleis. Cognates: Dutch Engelsch, German Englisch, Danish Engelsk, French Anglais (Old French Engelsche), Spanish Inglés, Italian Inglese. [Bold emphasis added]^[9]

The word English is defined by Dictionary.com using these exact words: “the people of England collectively, especially as distinguished from the Scots, Welsh, and Irish.”¹⁰ The same online dictionary also defines it as: “the Germanic language of the British Isles, widespread and standard also in the U.S. and most of the British Commonwealth, historically termed Old English (c450–c1150), Middle English (c1150–c1475), and Modern English (after c1475).”¹¹

In the definition of the word English from EtymOnline.com, it shows that the word English comes from Old English Englisc, meaning “of or pertaining to the Angles” and Engle, meaning “the Angles” (bold emphasis added). The Angles were “one of the main Germanic peoples who settled in Great Britain in the post-Roman period. They founded several of the kingdoms of Anglo-Saxon England, and their name is the root of the name England.”¹² The Angles were said to speak the language Angleish. Today, this language is known as English. Keep in mind that the words Angleish and Angles both have the word angle attached to them. In geometry, the word angle means “the space within two lines or three or more planes diverging from a common point, or within two planes diverging from a common line.”¹³ It is important to know that the word angle is an anagram for the word angel which means, “one of a class of spiritual beings; a celestial attendant of God. In medieval angelology, angels constituted the lowest of the nine celestial orders (seraphim, cherubim, thrones, dominations or dominions, virtues, powers, principalities or principdoms, archangels, and angels).”¹⁴

At the surface, the words angle and angel seem to have no connection except that they are made up of the same five letters. However, when you investigate and decipher them deeply enough, you will see that they have a strong connection to each other. One of their connections can be found when you use the art of anagram to switch the letters “e” and “l” in the word angel, transforming it into the word angle, meaning “the amount of rotation needed to bring one line or plane into coincidence with another, generally measured in radians or in degrees, minutes, and seconds, as in 12° 10prime; 30”, which is read as 12 degrees, 10 minutes, and 30 seconds” (bold emphasis added).¹⁵ The word radian means “a unit of plane angular measurement that is equal to the angle at the center of a circle subtended by an arc whose length equals the radius or approximately 57.3 degrees” (bold emphasis added).¹⁶

One of the words in the previous paragraph that is important for helping you find the connection between the words “angle” and “angel” is “radian”. This word has a strong connection to the word radiant which means “a point or object from which rays proceed.”¹⁷ Etymologically, the words radian and radiant are related to the word radius. This word is derived from the Latin word radius, meaning “staff, stake, rod; spoke of a wheel; ray of light, beam of light; radius of a circle” (bold emphasis added).¹⁸ Therefore, the words angel, angle, radian, radiant, and radius are all related to a significant degree. To find more evidence that the words angel and angle are related to a significant degree, you need to study how radiant light radiates from the Sun (circle-like object) and how the Earth’s atmosphere affects the trajectory of light. According to Merriam-Webster.com, the word radiant means “radiating rays or reflecting beams of light”.¹⁹ Keep in mind that the words radiant and radiate have a strong connection to the word radian and the term ray of light. Also, keep in mind that an angel is often depicted as a light being.

When light travels from the Sun to Earth, it has to travel through the Earth’s atmosphere before it reaches the surface of the Earth. As light travels through the atmosphere, it refracts which is defined as “(of water, air, or glass) make (a ray of light) change direction when it enters at an angle” (bold emphasis added).²⁰ This process, which is known as atmospheric refraction, causes light rays to bend and change direction. In other words, it causes light rays to angle (verb), meaning “to move or bend in an angle” (bold emphasis added).²¹ It is important to know that the words angle and angel both have the prefix ang- which etymologically means “to bend”.²²

Based on the information and definitions in the previous few pages, the word “English” has a strong connection to the word “Angleish” which can be anagrammatically written as “Angelish”. Is this evidence that English/Angleish is the language of angels? An angel (angle of light) is said to be a messenger of God. English is a language that is useful for conveying messages in many different angles. The word angle can mean “a viewpoint”²³ and is related to the word perspective. English, like many languages of mankind, often has many words to describe and define a thing, allowing us to understand it from different viewpoints/perspectives/angles.

The English alphabet that makes up the English language is derived from the Latin alphabet. What most people do not know about the Latin alphabet is that it was created using sacred geometry, sacred numbers, lines, arcs, and angles. The word geometry means “the branch of mathematics that deals with the deduction of the properties, measurement, and relationships of points, lines, angles, and figures in space from their defining conditions by means of certain assumed properties of space” (bold emphasis added).²⁴ In this paragraph, an important word to decipher is alphabet; this word comes from the combination of the Greek letters A/α (alpha), meaning “the first letter of the Greek alphabet (A, α)” or “the first; beginning”;²⁵ and B/β (beta), meaning “the second letter of the Greek alphabet (β, B)”.²⁶ It is interesting to know that in astronomy the word alpha means, “used to designate the brightest star in a constellation”;²⁷ as for the word beta, it means “a star that is usually the second brightest of a constellation”.²⁸

The Greek letters alpha and beta are derived from the Hebrew letters א (aleph), which means “ox” or “bull”, and ב (beth), meaning “house”. According to the book Mysteries of the Alphabet by Marc-Alain Ouaknin, the Hebrew letter aleph means “strength” or “man”, and the Hebrew letter beth means “house” and is a “metaphor for the womb”.²⁹ The letter aleph is strongly associated with the words father, man, and male; and the letter beth is strongly associated with the words mother, woman, and female. Keep in mind that the English letters A/a and B/b are also derived from the Hebrew letters aleph and beth respectively. This is why the English letter “B”, which is derived from the Hebrew letter “beth” (meaning “house” and “womb”), looks like two breasts (B). Did you notice that the initial letter of the word “breasts” is “b”?

On a deeper spiritual level, the letters of the alphabet contain important information about a polaric and divine story. This sacred story is about the Divine Masculine Energy and the Divine Feminine Energy and their journey to achieve balance and harmony. Hidden in the words, letters, and symbols of this divine story are the secrets of the universe and the records of mankind’s true history. This divine story is strongly connected to the Alpha and the Omega, meaning “the Beginning and the End”. In the Greek alphabet, Alpha is written as the letter A which is the beginning or the first letter; and Omega is written as the letter Ω which is the end or the last letter. Keep in mind that the New Testament of the Bible was originally written using the Greek alphabet.

“I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End,” says the Lord, “who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty.” (Revelation 1:8, NKJV)

And He said to me, “It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End. I will give of the fountain of the water of life freely to him who thirsts. He who overcomes shall inherit all things, and I will be his God and he shall be My son. (Revelation 21:6-7, NKJV)

“And behold, I am coming quickly, and My reward is with Me, to give to every one according to his work. I am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End, the First and the Last.” (Revelation 22:12-13, NKJV)

Let us turn our attention back to the word angel. Throughout history, angels are often depicted as beings of light. An important fact about light is that it has electromagnetic waves which are waves that express the characteristics of the Divine Masculine Energy and the Divine Feminine Energy. The evidence of this can be seen when the word “electromagnetic” is separated into two words, transforming it into the prefix “electro-” and the word “magnetic”. The prefix electro- is a word-forming element that etymologically means “electrical, electricity”.³⁰ As for the word magnetic, it etymologically and literally means “having the properties of a magnet”.³¹ Electricity represents power and the Divine Masculine Energy, and magnetism represents the Divine Feminine Energy. Electricity and magnetism are, in a way, opposites; however, one cannot exist without the other.

The letters of the alphabet were created to express the infinite expression of the Divine Masculine Energy and the Divine Feminine Energy, allowing polaric ideas, such as positive and negative, male and female, order and chaos, good and evil, etc., to manifest in the material world. This is one of the reasons that letters are grouped into the word alphabet/alpha-beta (alpha represents the masculine principle and beta represents the feminine principle), the system of sacred symbols that is used by man to manifest worlds through the power of positive and negative words. Hidden in the alphabet is the secret knowledge of the archangels.

The word archangel etymologically means “an angel of the highest order” and is derived from the Greek word arkhangelos, meaning “chief angel”.³² Arkangelos is made up of the Greek prefix arkh- and the Greek word angelos. The Greek word arkhon, which means “ruler, commander, chief, captain”,³³ is strongly connected to the Greek prefix arkh-, meaning “chief, first”.³⁴ When the Greek word arkhon is converted into English, it transforms into the English word archon. In Gnosticism, an archon is “any of a number of world-governing powers that were created with the material world by a subordinate deity called the Demiurge (Creator).”³⁵ The word “archon” is made up of two words which are “arch” and “on”. The word on has a strong connection to power and light. The word archangel also has a strong connection to power and light. Based on the information and definitions in this paragraph, archangels are the modern day versions of archons.

The words archangel and archon both have the word arc attached to them. The word arc means “any unbroken part of the circumference of a circle or other curved line.”³⁶ It can also mean “the apparent path described above and below the horizon by a celestial body (such as the sun).”³⁷ The word arc comes from the Latin word arcus, meaning “a bow, arch” (bold emphasis added).³⁸ These definitions connect the word arc to the words arch, angel, angle, Angleish, and English. In other words, the definitions in the previous few pages show strong evidence that English is one of the languages of angels (angles of light). Remember, the words angel and angle both have the prefix ang- which etymologically means “to bend”. To create an arc from a line you need to bend it in many angles; to create an arc from a ray of light you also need to blend it in many angles.

An important word in the previous paragraph that is beneficial for you to know its deeper meaning is arch. It is important to know that the word arch can be a noun, verb, adjective, prefix, and suffix. As a suffix, -arch is attached to certain words, such as monarch, oligarch, hierarch, and patriarch. As a prefix, arch- is attached to many words, such as archbishop, archaeology, archetype, architecture, and archangel. The prefix arch- is derived from Greek arkhi-, meaning “first, chief, primeval”.³⁹ This prefix is similar in meaning to the Greek word arche which means “beginning”, “origin”, or “first cause”.⁴⁰

Now in Greek, ‘arche’ is written with the letters alpha, rho, chi and eta, or as ‘ἀρχή’.⁴ And this Greek word ‘arche’ can, just as the English ‘arch’, be phonetically boiled down to the sound ‘rk’, which in Greek capitals would be written as ‘PX’. ‘Arche’, the beginning and origin, brought back to its essence, is written as ‘PX’. This is of great importance. For when these two letters are combined in one monogram then the well known Christian symbol  results. For Christians this symbol stands not so much for ‘arche’, but for Christ. In that case the monogram is read as ‘XP’. These letters correspond to the basic sound in ‘Christ’, namely ‘kr’. So it is in this so called ‘chi-rho’ monogram that a relation occurs between ‘arche’ and ‘Christ’.⁵ Arche is Christ. But who is Christ? In esoteric thought is the term ‘Christ’ not so much used to refer to the person Jesus of Nazareth, but more primarily to a principle; the ‘Christ principle’. This principle is considered to occur when spirit relates to matter, and is held to be the same as the soul principle. As such is it the intermediating factor between the aforementioned poles (as Jesus Christ is considered to be the intermediating factor between man and God).⁶

So far this chi-rho symbol has been considered grammatically, but it can also be looked upon in a geometrical way. The symbol represents a sound, but in being representative does it have a distinctive shape and form. Now the basic features of the symbol are a more or less oval shape on top and a cross at its base. This considering it may dawn that as a geometrical symbol it has not so much been introduced by the Greeks on base of their grammatical script signs, but that it is derived from the older Egyptian [ankh] symbol. For the meaning of this Egyptian 'ankh', as the symbol is called, is remarkably similar to the chi-rho symbol of the Christians. The meanings attached to the ankh symbol are namely 'life' and 'soul'.⁷ In these meanings can clearly Christ be recognized. After all did Jesus Christ himself proclaim to be the life.⁸ But the relation of Christ with the ankh goes obviously further, for all will recognize the Christian cross in the ankh. The crucifixion of the son of God on the cross brings forth the Christ, just as the entering of spirit into matter brings forth the Christ or soul principle.⁹ The ankh as Christ and as arche is the beginning and the origin, because it is only through the relation of spirit and matter that anything comes to being.¹⁰ Through the union of father-spirit and mother-matter, Christ (being the son and the soul) is the firstborn.¹¹ And being the firstborn from whence everything else originates, may in this way Christ be well considered to be the origin of all things.^[41]

The union of Father (Spirit) and Mother (Matter) bore Christ, the Son of God. This divine story is recorded in the English alphabet. Keep in mind that the English alphabet is derived from the Latin alphabet. To find this divine story in the English alphabet, we need to turn our attention to the number 12. The twelfth (12th) letter of the English/Anglish/Angelish alphabet is L/l. Phonetically, L/l is El, the Hebrew word for God. According to many religious, esoteric, and occult teachings, God is Light! L/l is the initial letter of the word light, connecting it to the word angel. An angel is often depicted as a being of light. Did you notice that the word angel has the Hebrew word el attached to it?

The number 12 is made up of the numbers 1 and 2. In the English alphabet, the first (1st) letter is A/a and the second (2nd) letter is B/b. When these two English letters are translated into Greek, A/a transforms into A/α (alpha) and B/b transforms into B/β (beta). Remember, the Greek letters alpha and beta are derived from the Hebrew letters א (aleph) and ב (beth) respectively. The letters alpha and aleph are strongly associated with the words father, man, and male. As for the letters beta and beth, they are strongly associated with the words mother, woman, and female. In other words, the letter alpha represents the masculine principle and the letter beta represents the feminine principle. Together, they transform into the Greek word “alphabeta” which is written in English as “alphabet”. The English/Anglish/Angelish alphabet/alphabet is a writing system made up of sacred letters. In certain esoteric and occult teachings, these sacred letters are known as gods.
